A rigorous and disciplined process

At Fidelity, tactical asset allocation strategies are used to add an additional layer of sophistication to our fundamental bottom-up approach.

A tactical asset allocation approach can be a valuable tool for portfolio managers, especially when markets are volatile. Successful tactical asset allocation requires constant awareness and analysis of a wide variety of economic and market factors. That's why it's great when it's undertaken by portfolio managers who are backed by a team of experts with access to a broad range of information and sophisticated analytical tools.

1

Different asset allocation tools are used by the team to manage a variety of portfolios that meet a range of investor needs.

2

Active asset allocation strategies are used to add an additional layer of sophistication to our fundamental bottom-up approach.

3

The portfolio managers may over- or underweight the portfolios to manage risk and capitalize on changing market conditions.

Reasons to consider asset allocation investing at Fidelity

Our asset allocation team combines fundamental research with practical knowledge about how stocks, bonds and cash (or cash equivalents) interact with each other to develop diversified portfolios designed to match different investors' tolerance for risk and investment time horizon.

Asset allocation funds are "all weather" solutions that can simplify your investment portfolio.

Experienced portfolio managers relieve you of having to select investments, and they combine investments in appropriate ways to help meet your goals.

Tactical rebalancing by the managers allows your portfolio to capitalize on market activity and manage risk.

Commissions, trailing commissions, management fees, brokerage fees and expenses may be associated with investments in mutual funds, asset allocation services and ETFs. Please read the mutual fund's or ETF's prospectus, which contains detailed investment information, before investing. Mutual funds and ETFs are not guaranteed. Their values change frequently, and investors may experience a gain or a loss. Past performance may not be repeated.

A return of capital reduces an investor's adjusted cost base. Capital gains taxes are deferred until units are sold or until the ACB goes below zero. Investors should not confuse this cash-flow distribution with a fund's rate of return or yield. While investors in Fidelity's tax-efficient series (Fidelity Tax-Smart CashFlow™) will be able to defer some personal capital gains, they must still pay tax on capital gains distributions that arise from the sale of individual holdings by fund managers, and on interest and dividend distributions. Fidelity Tax-Smart CashFlow will also pay a year-end distribution that must be reinvested in additional securities of the applicable fund.

Certain Class Funds are closed to new purchases and switches for registered plans, except for existing systematic transactions. Certain other Class Funds are not recommended for registered plan investors, and registered plan investors should consider the trust fund equivalent for these Class Funds instead. Registered plan investors should also be aware that certain Class Funds may, from time to time, bear an income tax expense which will reduce returns. Please read the Fund Facts for further details.
